COLUMBIA, S. C. SATURDAY NOVEMBER 14, 1914

NUMBER 9

UNIVERSITY

An Address of the Voters of the 4th S. C. Congressional District.

Spartanburg, S. C., October 20th, 1914.

Christian Cong. Dist. Convention of South Carolina.

With much anxiety and deep regretation for the honor you have given me in making me your candidate for Congress, I am truly realizing the responsibility of my task and the great consequences.

I realize fully the great task your convention of this 4th district has in my hands and the instruction given me to do the best possible for the people in the halls of Congress and therefore I will do my best to representatives of the people.

I will do my best to see that the Negroes of the state have the right to have the opportunity of a fair and impartial chance to cast a ballot for whatever candidate they may desire to represent them in Congress.

As your representative in the Congress shall have that body say what is meant by the 14th and 15th Amendments of our national Constitution. We have appeared before the courts time and again and those tribunals have so shifted about from one technicality to another until the main question is left unsettled. All shall ask is the true meaning of the two amendments, and shall insist that Congress place its construction upon these two blanks.

I fully realize that I am making the race against one of the most honorable and ablest men of the district, and one who the people can trust so far as a democrat is concerned, but the great majority of voters in this district have been, and are now denied the privilege of casting a fair ballot.

I call the attention of the voters of the district to the stupid fact that twenty months of democratic national rule has so depleted the national treasury of the one hundred and forty million dollars left in it by the republicans, that they are now planning a direct tax upon the people to raise one hundred and ten million dollars to carry on the government, and calling it a war tax when the war is 4,000 miles away, among the most remote nations of the earth. Through extravagance and incompetence the democrats, here within twenty months, made appropriations amounting to seven or eight millions dollars more than the whole of the republican appropriations for the last four years of republican rule, that they have broken our system of collecting revenue to run the government and opened up our ports free to the world, and ruined our workingmen, losing combat with the cheap labor of the non-world. And after we had built the Panama Canal at a cost of $350,000,000.00 dollars with our own money the democrats in Congress have thrown down the opportunity for American coastwise trade and given it to England and the world over by putting them on equal footing with American coastwise vessels.

I again thank you, Mr. Chairman and the Convention for the trust and honor you have conferred upon me to lay our case before the Congress of the United States which I shall do with all my might with the assistance of my God and fellow republicans.

In the name of Freedom and Justice my aim shall be, My people my God, and my country.

J. W. SEXTON.

FROM THE CITY ON THE EDISTO

Orangeburg, Oct. 27.—This is almost a gala week for Orangeburg. John B. Robinson's big show is here to draw thousands of people to the city notwithstanding the bad times. Of course some will only see and witness the large and attractive parade while others will see the real show and thus add largely to Mr. Robinson's already accumulated wealth, and at the same time reducing their own financial standing in a manner almost alarming when we consider present conditions. Curiosity, fine clothes, and a desire for a "big time" or the part of some of our people together with an insatiable appetite for whiskey, are among some of the things by which the country is ruined. I think we need to replenish our stock of "Old Time Religion" in all avenues of life and thus emulate some of the virtues of our forefathers.

The York rite F. A. Masons are in annual convention here this week with grand master Kennedy and Dr. I. L. Hardy leading. They say financial reports are remarkably good, all things considered.

Hon. I. S. Leevey, of Columbia, is in the city to-day looking after his congressional interests.

Hon. R. W. Westberry, of Sumter, is also in the city to-day attending the masonic convention of which he is a member in good standing, and he is boosting the colored State Fair which meets in Columbia next week and of which Mr. Westberry is general superintendent.

Students are now in the trains to enter Claflin and the State College. These two schools are doing a great work for our boys and girls. At the State College last Sunday night the Y. M. C. A. held a rally meeting which was largely attended by the faculty and student body and other friends of the school. Splendid addresses were delivered by officers and members of the association. The music under the direction of Miss G. Delpha Boger, who is also a member of the faculty, was indeed both charming and inspiring. Dr. Wilkinson made a fine and impressive appeal to the young men of the school inviting them to become members of the Y. M. C. A. After which 25 young men gave their names. Miss Boger, who was on the program for a solo reached her climax and almost brought the large audience to their feet with applause. I think this was more of a high than a solo.

Rev. J. B. Middlecamp, one of the veterans of the South Carolina Conference and indeed a Bible student, preached for Dr. Miller last Sunday morning. The Dr. being somewhat indispersed and also deeply affected by account of the sad news of the death of his brother, who had just died out in Arkansas. Dr. Burroughs preached at night and held his Fourth quarterly conference Monday night. And thus the good work goes on in the midst of sickness, sorrow, pain and death.

Our good friend, Mr. L. W. Hooker has opened up a fine grocery business on Middleton St., where he is doing a fine business. Call and see him and get something nice to cook.

Our good friend, Mr. O. C. Scott Jr., dropped into see me a few days ago and said "Papa and all were well, and that he was getting along nicely." Mr. Scott is a student at Claflin and is making good. Call again Mr. Scott—The Indicator's Friend.

THE U HERN INDICATOR

The Indicator has not appeared in three weeks for the reason that we are without a printer. In order to get the paper out we have engaged a printer who will print it for us. We are sending out bills and fast as these pay up upon request. We will enroll the names of our creditors and so those who owe us must pay us if they wish to get this paper direct from our office. If you have not all send us a part of what you owe. From now on we will publish each week the name of every subscriber who pays for his or her paper. If your name does not appear the week you pay it will appear the next week providing you pay at least 85 cents for 8 months.

This paper is published for the benefit of the Negro race and only those of the race who pay for it. Their news items will be printed first, others will be charged at the regular price 15 cents per inch for 10 inches; under 10 inches 25 cents per inch, and in advance. Our correspondents are urged to govern themselves in accordance with the above rules. Big write ups of church rallies, Marriages, Entertainments or Balls, will be printed at 15 cents per inch in advance. No use to write editor or anybody else in personal relations and address it to the Southern Indicator.

REV. RICHARD CARROLL MARRIED NEXT WEEK

Early last week invitation went forward announcing the coming marriage of the Rev. Richard Carroll, of Columbia to Miss Corrie J. McDaniel of Laurens Wednesday, November 18th 1914. The ceremony will be held in the church and the nuptial knot will be tied by Dr. C. T. Walker, of Augusta Ga. The couple will leave immediately for Louisville, Kentucky, where the Rev. Carroll will resume his evangelistic work.

Miss Corrie J. McDaniel is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dr. McDaniel of Laurens, S. C. They live five miles from Laurens on a farm on which there is no property. On this property they have a fine ten room residence, several out buildings and two other houses for tenants.

Miss McDaniel is a graduate of Benedict College, a consecrated Christian worker, one of the best school teachers in the state and an excellent speaker. She knows the Bible and is well read. She is a dressmaker and a woman void of ostentation. She has worked on the farm many a day and is an excellent cook.

The people in her community idolize her. Her parents are devoted members of Rocky Spring Baptist Church and Miss McDaniel is a prominent member of the Household of Ruth a branch of the Odd Fellows Society.

The Colored State Fair. The Colored State Fair was a decided success last week. Everything, into consideration, the officers need to be congratulated upon the showing made despite the hard times. Full account will appear in the Indicator's next issue.
